Seven intellectual property lawyers have jumped from Proskauer Rose to Perkins Coie.

The group includes four partners who worked at Heller Ehrman before its dissolution and three associates, the Am Law Daily reports. The partners—Colin Sandercock, Paul Booth, John Isacson and David Laub—will be reunited with 13 other former Heller lawyers now working at Perkins Coie.

The article notes that Sandercock attended Catholic University's law school with the managing partner of Perkins Coie's Washington, D.C., office. "We have all sort of reunited at Perkins," Sandercock told the publication.
