

Report Abuse Next Blog»

Create Blog Sign In

1 Trick of a tiny belly : Cut down a bit of your belly every day by using this 1 weird old tip.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 2009

Nazi fugitive found a kindred spirit in Zbigniew Brzezinski

0 tweets

Writing in Egypt's Ahram, Sophie Ibrahim reports on a Nazi war criminal who converted to Islam and lived in Cairo for decades.

In Cairo's most populous district, a tall athletic man who speaks Arabic with an accent moved from one place to another. For 30 years, neighbours and their children would call him the "German man" or "Uncle Tarek" who played table tennis and carried a camera all the time but never allowed himself to be photographed.

No one seemed to know his real identity -- a Nazi war criminal, concentration camp doctor Aribert Heim. During the 1930s, Heim earned the nickname Dr Death. The most wanted Nazi war criminal was still believed by the Simon Wiesenthal Centre, a Jewish human rights organisation aimed at hunting down Nazis and bringing them to justice, to be at large... Heim, a member of Hitler's elite Waffen-SS and a medical doctor at the Buchenwald, Sachsenhausen and Mauthausen concentration camps, left a son who constantly denied knowledge of his father's whereabouts. Only last week, Ruediger, the son, told the press that his father had died in Egypt in 1992...

...Heim is accused of committing atrocities against Jewish prisoners in Mauthausen, in his native Austria. He allegedly performed operations on prisoners without anaesthesia; removing organs from inmates, then leaving them to die on the operating table; injecting poison, including gasoline, into the hearts of others; and taking the skull of at least one victim as a souvenir.

After living off the radar of Nazi hunters for more than a decade after World War II -- much of it in the German spa town of Baden-Baden where he had a wife, two sons and a medical practice as a gynaecologist -- he escaped capture just as investigators closed in on him in 1962. Investigators suspected that he took shelter in Latin America where his illegitimate daughter lives in Chile. They also received tips that he might be in Saudi Arabia, Argentina or Vietnam.

A travel document found inside his briefcase showed that he entered Egypt in 1963 after driving through France, Spain and Morocco, under his real second name. In the space marked "profession", he was described as a "doctor/ economist" but then crossed it out. Other applications for extension of residency showed that he lived in Egypt under his real name until the late 1970s when bank receipts showed the transfer of money to a Tarek Hussein Farid...

...In the dusty briefcase, there were also research papers he wrote in English that show his attempt to prove that Jews are not Semitic. He planned to send the documents to several figures including former United Nations secretary-general Kurt Waldheim, former US national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, and ex-Yugoslav leader Marshal Tito.

So a Nazi war criminal and Muslim convert found a kindred spirit in former Carter official and current Obama adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski?

I'm shocked. I really, really am.

Labels: Carter, extremism, Obama, War

Permalink | 8:31 AM

0 comments links to this post

0 Comments:

Post a Comment

Subscribe to Post Comments [Atom]

Links to this post:

Search

Dustin Weeks, LifeLock Member Services

Identity Theft Protection.

Real People.

Real Protection. Real Peace of Mind.

LifeLock.

Document Shredder with Enrollment Offer Details

By Popular Demand

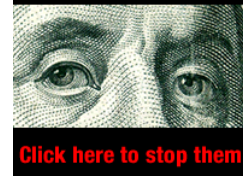

Don't Cry for Me, America

HAIFA 1930s

What really happened

More Bailouts?

Click here to stop them.

www.FreedomWorks.org/Action Arts by Google

thousands of neo-nazis march in germany (video)

Create a Link

<< Home

Ten Previous Posts

- Larwyn's Link Kerplosion: "Freedom must prevail"
- Is Conservatism dead?
- Pic o' the day: Religion
- Has anyone seen the Speaker? She left this under ...
- Larwyn's Link Kerplosion: Transparency Abandoned!
- What the Stimulus Bill means to me
- Yowza! Danica Patrick graces SI's swimsuit editio...
- Now Bill Clinton is lobbying for the Fairness Doct...
- Openness. Transparency. Collaboration.
- Two Wolves Philosophy

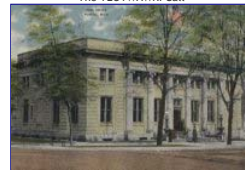

1 Trick of a tiny belly :

Cut down a bit of your belly every day by using this

1 tip.

Exclusive: the final ACORN sting

Newsreel from the near future

Star Trek: The Stimulus Doomsday Machine

The financial system needs regulation!

Genocide in Green

1800mattress.com
1-888-628-8737

You spend 1/3 of your life In bed.

1/3 OF
YOUR LIFE

1/3 of
the Price

Mattress sets starting at $299.99

1800mattress.com
1-888-628-8737

'We're sorry': Obama voters have regrets

Meltdown

Star Trek: The Olbermann Gambit

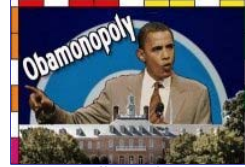

KopeczneCare

Mission Accomplished: Obama nukces economy

Obama Comix: Barack & Tony Rezko

Obamonopoly

Prescription for Disaster

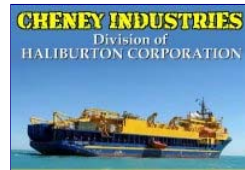

Holder's Chickens Come Home to Roost

Results of Obama's "Community Organizing"

The secret scrapbook of Barack Obama

Somali Coast Cruise Package

Can your family afford more Democrats?

Dead cops, dead Marines and their killers

North Korean Motivational Posters

Fannie Mae testimony

Operation Starfish

Jamie Gorelick, Mistress of Disaster

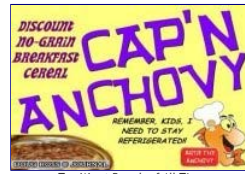

Official ACORN employment app

Six degrees of Barack Obama

Trinity United Church Kids Activity Book

Ten Worst Brands of All Time

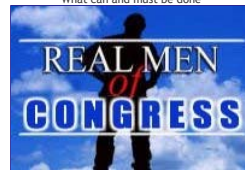

SITTING LIKE THIS IS NOT ALLOWED
Convicts await stoning deaths in Nigeria

Today we will demonstrate to you our true power.
Terrifying new video from unknown group

What can and must be done

Real Men of Congress Series

Suicidal Mystics with Nukes

A world without Network Neutrality

Unintended Consequences

Ten worst branding decisions of all-time

Democrats Support Higher Oil Prices

