

Sherlock Holmes Looks At Spitzer, Gollum Cuomo, Crooks, The NY Times And Medicaid Fraud on CuomoTARP.blogspot.com

CuomoTARP blog examines the interactions of Andrew Cuomo, Eliot Spitzer, the NY Times, crooks, Medicaid fraud, and Gollum Cuomo on NY Times reporting

Leading with "Things aren't what they seem, skim milk masquerades as cream," CuomoTARP.blogspot.com asks how Sherlock Holmes would look at Spitzer/Cuomo relation? Spitzer begins a new CNN program October 4 with a non-flattering, "of course, the problem that Andrew has is that everybody knows that behind the scenes, he is the dirtiest, nastiest political player out there."

The blog wonders whether Spitzer hasn't fully examined his downfall? Were Spitzer's enemies just Wall Street crooks and Senate leader, Bruno. The blog asks Spitzer to take a more detached Holmes' like view and look who had the most to gain. Had Spitzer considered the quest of Gollum Cuomo for the "ring"? Had Spitzer imagined Gollum's dread, were Spitzer to run for reelection as Governor and then President in 2012; Gollum's quest would fail because Gollum would be too old in 2020?

The blog notes there were others with much to benefit with Spitzer's downfall; Wall Street investigations and prosecutions had ground to a halt under Cuomo as Attorney General, but Spitzer could have kept the prosecutions moving by using his NY Constitutional powers to order Cuomo to prosecute those who Spitzer as governor might identify.

The blog looks at various scenarios and the winners and losers where 1: Wall Street investigations continue with the "Sheriff of Wall Street," now Governor (using his constitutional powers) directing his Attorney General to prosecute. And a treasure trove of potential Wall street targets is provided by the Federal TARP bailouts. With winners - Spitzer; and losers - Cuomo who loses the "ring" and who is blamed by Wall Streeters using the Cuomo memo in the "smoking gun" on this blog as their excuse that they were just carrying out Cuomo's policy.

Or 2:, where Spitzer realizes Medicaid fraud is bankrupting NY State and orders Cuomo to prosecute with winners - Spitzer; and losers - NY fraudsters in government and Cuomo for not acting in his Public Integrity Unit.

Or the actual 3, where Spitzer leaves office in disgrace and "Wall Street" has nothing to fear from Cuomo; the NY Medicaid fraudsters keep their fattened positions and Cuomo now has the "ring" within his grasp, with winners - crooks and Cuomo; and losers - The People and Spitzer.

The blog then goes on to the role of the NY Times, which first reported on the Spitzer scandal and notes Clinton didn't resign for Lewinsky, who wasn't paid for sex and asks why should Spitzer resign for paying for sex? The blog asks, what else did the NY Times and/or the Feds have on Spitzer? Did they get it from Cuomo? Why didn't the NY Times report on the other possible federal charges against Spitzer?

The blog then notes the NY Times removed another obstacle in Cuomo 's quest, Paterson, who slithered away after he was was exposed and threatened with further disclosures by the NY Times. The blog asks what other crimes and sleaze is the NY Times using to blackmail who else and for whom?

The bog has a final tally with 1.Spitzer loses governorship and first "Jewish" Presidency, but gets CNN job;

2. Wall Street crooks get the "Sheriff of Wall Street" off their backs and have a paid replacement, through their attorneys.;

3. NY Medicare fraudsters continue to fatten at the public trough while Andrew looks the other way;

4. Cuomo the "dirtiest, nastiest political player out there", fills his campaign chest and continues his quest for the "ring."

5. The NY Times succeeds at blackmail, but its supply of suckers shrinks rapidly.

The blog concludes with the characterization of the NY Times, Spitzer and Andrew Cuomo as " Spitzer, the NY Times' former love, was dumped for their new squeeze, Andrew. The NY Times' bad boy choices lead to the question; what's the NY Times covering up on Andrew (" the dirtiest, nastiest political player out there")?

CuomoTARP.blogspot.com