Dear Dr. Reed:

I am writing this letter in support of Lynne Lacey. I am a 57 year old professional businessman and I successfully manage a nearly 100 million dollar business. I have raised a son and daughter who are both married and very successful. They have blessed me with two grandchildren and one more on the way. I have shared my grandchildren with Lynne and have trusted them in her care and would do so again at any time. I have been in the same business since 1973 and have achieved significant recognition from my peers for my accomplishments and integrity. I share this with you so that you understand I am a mature, professional, stable citizen and you do not take my letter or observations lightly.

I have known Lynne for nearly a year and during that time I have spent significant quality time with her and her three lovely children, Christopher, Skyler and Kelsey. We have shared meals together, attended their soccer games, gone to shows, attended their school functions and generally spent quality family time. The children were always well taken care of, loved and I observed them responding to Lynne in a very positive and loving manner. She has a great way of providing them with positive reinforcement and frequently openly expressed her love to them. I observed her using a "token chip system" the kids loved as a behavior system." If one of the kids was acting up and not listening they eventually were put on "red" until they had time to think about their choices and "start their day over". Parents we interacted with would frequently ask to copy the system for their own family because it was so kid positive and effective. Lynne is not just a great mom to these kids she is a mom who loves kids in general.

I have been personally appalled, shocked and offended by the events over the last 6 months. I can tell you that during the months of April and May I witnessed an inordinate amount of stress put on Lynne by her former husband Chris Wheeler. His continual threats to have her "thrown in jail" for not meeting child support and/or medical payments, which in my opinion are unfair and her original divorce agreement should be appealed and all attorneys investigated, but that is another story; created an inordinate amount of stress and frustration. In addition I witnessed Chris Wheeler going out of his way to exclude Lynne from school functions, make it difficult for her to spend quality time with the children, refuse to allow them to bring clothing and other amenities with them for their visits and simply tell them to have their mother provide. For instance, a typical call from six year old Kelsey on a Tuesday night would ask for "Mommy to be at school for a presentation the next morning." It would be the first time Lynne has been notified. Lynne would call and text Chris Wheeler and his response would always be "I just found out too." We then found out this was not the case and Chris Wheeler had been sending the au pair or his mom in Lynne's place. Lynne would struggle to reschedule patients for the next day and would be very hurt to walk in and see her X- Mother in Law and the Au Pair sitting there not expecting her. The teachers began to support Lynne as they caught on what was happening but this all created tremendous stress.

It has been my observation that Chris Wheeler is a bitter and acrimonious person and his continual threats, harassment and hostile attitude were a major contributing factor leading up to Lynne's recent relapse. On the few occasions I had the misfortune to observe or come in contact with Chris Wheeler he projected anger and appeared almost confrontational. He appears to be a very unhappy person and my perception is he that he enjoys intimidating the people around him, his children included, to satisfy his ego and appease whatever is torturing his soul. I have built my career and my business around my ability to judge a persons character, integrity and personality and I can tell you that Chris Wheeler is a person that would not be welcome on my team.

It is my opinion based on factual observation that Chris Wheeler orchestrated this malicious, slanderous and vicious harassment of Lynne with the sole purpose of driving her over the edge. It is my opinion that he was aware of Lynne's fragile condition, financial struggles; created by him I might add, and her ongoing battle with her illness with the sole intent of driving her to the point of relapse. He then joined forces with his corrupt Boca Raton attorney father to wage a legal onslaught against her in an effort to take away her children, her maternal rights and in my opinion destroy her. If you feel that my perception is histrionic than I strongly recommend that you visit www.christophercwheeler.com

The Wheeler family has a history of corruption, DUI's and family violence and Lynne's former husband allows the children to spend the majority of the time under their care and I have been told in many instances being driven around with Chris Wheeler Sr while he is under the influence of alcohol. You would be remiss if you left these facts out of your evaluation because I am prepared, and will get the opportunity, to testify in court to these facts.

Shortly after Lynne's unfortunate relapse I was instrumental in her voluntary admission to a detox facility as well as the direct voluntary admission to Transformations Treatment Center. During the 5 days Lynne was in Detox I scrambled to take care of her car, home and other issues. Her primary concern was that the children had any supplies from her car or home that they may need for a pending trip out of state with the Wheeler family. It is also noteworthy that Chris Wheeler cancelled a trip to Lynne's parents over the summer, lied to me and told me her parents had cancelled it and he goes out of his way to prevent the children from speaking or visiting with their family on Lynne's side. Lynne's parents are close to the children and have a summer home in Maine that the children enjoy every summer. The Grandmother is an educator and currently heads the religious education services for a Congregational Church in New Jersey. The Grandfather is a retired lawyer who the kids look forward to seeing all winter. This is not a nice person or a father acting in the best interest of his children. I contacted Chris Wheeler in an attempt to return the children's toys, school supplies and clothes and he was uncooperative, belligerent, and confrontational and in spite of my repeated requests to stay focused on the children and the events I was struggling with his only concern was to make insulting, degrading and disparaging remarks about Lynne. His comments bordered on slander and several were threatening in manner and again I am prepared to and will get my chance to testify to these comments in court. A few of his choice comments for example;

"She will never see the kids again if I have anything to do with it"

"We will be locked in court for a long time"

"Good luck, I wouldn't wish her on my worst enemy"

"I don't care about the kids; I only care about getting her"

This is a small sample and I made copious notes of the events of that day as well as subsequent events documenting Chris Wheeler's adversarial, confrontational, irascible, and hostile and revenge based attitude. As a father, successful businessman and contributing citizen it is my opinion that this is a man centered on hatred and revenge, has a troubled past, cares very little for the emotional well being of his children and is more focused on creating turmoil and legal battles than he is in creating a sound, emotionally stable environment for the children. In my opinion there are only two issues here to be dealt with; the emotional and physical well being of the children and Lynne's continued treatment for the deadly disease that she fights every single day of her life. The rest of this is harassment plain and simple and machinations initiated by a very corrupt family and a very disturbed former husband.

On the day that I was allowed to drop of the children's things that were left in Lynne's car and home I can tell you that all three children met me in the driveway and their primary concern was the well being of their mother. Their father did not even have the decency to inform them that Lynne was receiving treatment in a medical facility, was not injured in the accident and missed them terribly. He had not taken any steps to help them process what had happened and the steps being taken to keep everyone safe and stable. Young Christopher met me with wet eyes and the inner struggles and frustration were painfully obvious to me. When I told him his mother loved him very much he began to cry and told me he loved her as well. I believe that Lynne's former husband has abandoned his parental obligations and trampled on the emotions of these children by not allowing them to see or speak to their mother, help them process the recent events and in my opinion and observation he maintains a continual smear campaign against her damaging the emotional stability of all three children. Skyler and Kelsey looked terrified and all they wanted to know was if it was safe and if they were loved and if mom was safe and okay and getting help for her disease. These kids are educated about alcoholism. Lynne had done that. They were terrified she was dead and they had been left all alone. I do not think I was the person to deliver the news mom was okay but the relief I saw was staggering....Chris Wheeler purposely let these kids suffer in fear and isolation. Why?

I am available for a personal conversation at any time with adequate notice and I am fully prepared to back up and testify in a court of law to everything I have stated.

In conclusion I am stating for the record that preventing Lynne from seeing her children, participating in their growth and development and being part of their lives is a travesty of justice. I personally will not leave her side and will not tire in my efforts to right this horrible injustice and see to it that justice is ultimately served. You have the power to right this wrong immediately and recommend that Lynne is allowed to visit her children, even in a supervised environment, it is the right thing to do.

Sincerely,

Andrew J. Healey
