Important - Fraud Alert
To all STC Clients:

DO NOT RESPOND TO ANY UNSOLICITED REQUEST FOR ANY PERSONAL INFORMATION SUCH AS A CREDIT/DEBIT CARD NUMBER, OR ACCOUNT NUMBER.

Regularly, criminals distribute fraudulent emails that look as if they came from various financial services companies. While these criminals have yet to target clients of Stanford Trust Company (STC) we want to be proactive in alerting you to the potential for fraud.

These emails typically contain links to fake websites that appear to be maintained by a financial services company and request personal, confidential information, such as account information, credit/debit card numbers, and user names/passwords used for online account access. Other emails provide a phone number to a person who, when called, asks for the same personal information. This type of fraud is commonly referred to as "phishing."

STC will never, ever ask for such information in an unsolicited email request, phone call or by mail. Never provide personal information, including brokerage account number, online access user name/password, Social Security number, or credit/debit card number in response to an unsolicited request.

If you receive an email or any other unsolicited communication that claims to be from STC and requests personal or business brokerage information, it is a scam. Do not respond, do not click on any links provided, and do not call any numbers. STC will never use an unsolicited email to contact you requesting this information.

The following are some suggestions to help you recognize a phishing scam:

1. Be suspicious of any email with urgent requests for personal information for a security audit or survey or which contains threats to close your account.
2. Never use links in an unsolicited email to access a web page.
3. Do not fill out forms in email messages asking for personal financial information.
4. Regularly check your online account and your brokerage, bank, credit and/or debit card statements to make sure all transactions are legitimate.

If you have questions about this message or emails that appear to be from STC, please call your local advisor.
