Car bombing? What car bombing? The fact about your minivan is this, proving once again that with you, no good deed goes unpunished:

One afternoon in 2005 while I was at work, Candice called me in a panic from a doctor's office in Boca - quite upset. She said her car was dead in the doctor's office parking lot, she had no way home and your kids were upset. You were not with her and she asked if I could pick them up. I picked them up and brought them all home.

Dad told me the next day at work that the engine froze because the oil was never changed and it was a wreck as a result. Because Dad refused to pay, it sat outside, getting trashed for months and months. You left for California immediately after and for all I know, it sat outside for years.

No Iraqi car bombing. No drama. Just another tall tale you tell. You make some heinous accusations, through not so clever intimations, that I had something to do with your car. Now the record is straight about my involvement with your family and the minivan.
