Dear Sargent Rick McAfee,

I am writing about Mitch Huhem. I understand his death investigation remains open. My husband I met him personally and professionally trained under Mitch Huhem at two events within the last year. The last time we saw him was in Fort Lauderdale, Florida back in January of 2016. At that event, two of his sisters and his mother were all in attendance. He had a clear love and connection with his family which we witnessed. He clearly adored his mother. Not only was he the most positive person I know, he also had beliefs that would have made it very unlikely that he would have taken his own life. He was a man of great Christian beliefs. If he were to find out something about the Simon Bernstein estate who previously owned the Lion Head Lane home, that he felt was an injustice, my concern is he may have tried to make it right and maybe that got him killed. I had heard there was paperwork in the home regarding the Bernstein estate. This is the type of person he was. I understand not everyone has that value system, but that was his. I hope you look into his relationship with his wife, how they originally met and the dates the life insurance policies and will were changed by his attorney Pino, friend of his wife.

I hope you take this into consideration as you look into this case. I know there were records from the Bernstein estate that were found at 7020 Lion Head Lane, Boca Grande. I am haunted by this. Assuming he killed himself would be the easy answer, but I am afraid there is much more to this. I wanted you to know that it is unlikely that he would have killed himself, or left his minor children out of his will. He talked about them all the time. We did a 12 week class which he led over the phone with a very small group and he would share stories about growing up, his family, children etc. I know you are doing your best. I pray the truth comes out, whatever it is.

Sincerely,

Wayne & Lynette Henk
